ANOTHER MORNING AT BELAMBRA

And your Graffiti team wishes you a happy Wednesday. Do not forget that you have a nice afternoon planned!

“THE IDEAS START HERE AND THE PROJECTS CAN BE IMPLEMENTED IN THE LONG-RUN”

We ran into Rob Kool, the Board member of ecee and Co-Chair of the Summer Study and could not miss the opportunity to talk to him. Rob was kind enough to share his ecee experience with the Graffiti team. It was last century, when he attended his first summer study and.... he DID NOT like it! “It was too many people and the discussions were not very active”, - Rob explained. But a couple of years later he came back and liked it so much that he became a Board member and never left 😊 Well, it shows that ecee is becoming better and better.

Rob has also played a very active role to promote the Industrial ecee Summer Study and.... he succeeded – the first Industrial ecee Summer Study in the history took place last year. And now Rob is actively involved in the discussion about the next one.

Rob is very keen on the idea to gather “ambassadors” at ecee, i.e. to get experts from different countries come and share their experience here. He believes that ecee is doing very well to achieve this goal, as it is very attractive and well-known in the expert community. According to Rob, bringing in young researchers and experts is very important and social media can help with this.

He sees a big achievement in establishing a very informative Summer Study website. However, Rob believes that the outreach activities can still be improved to make sure that great ideas discussed at ecee reach policy-makers and get translated into policies.

Rob has high expectations from the 2013 Summer Study, as it has very strong plenary sessions, good representation of policy-makers and some “visionary guys”. He expects that the Summer Study will help to develop an even stronger network and establish a strong base for the evidence-based push for energy efficiency.

The greatest success of the Summer Study is to make an impact on the policy development and implementation of the real-life projects. “The ideas start here and the projects can be implemented in the long-run”, says Rob. We totally agree with him, so, let’s use every opportunity to share the ideas and work together on translating them into the practice – that is why we are here!

JOIN THE ENTRANZE INFORMAL SESSION TOMORROW

Thursday at 2pm, check tomorrow's Graffiti for the room! The ENTRANZE project backed by the Intelligent Energy Europe programme actively supports policy making by providing the required data, analysis and guidelines to achieve a fast and strong penetration of nZEB and RES-H/C within the national building stocks. The project connects building experts from European research and academia to national decision makers and key stakeholders with a view to build ambitious, but reality proof, policies and roadmaps. www.entranze.eu

The event will focus on the studies produced so far within the project such as a policy overview of EU27, stakeholder behaviour analysis, data mapping, innovative policy instruments and modelling of policy packages.

If you want YOUR informal session to be presented here, send us your input: graffiti.eceee2013@gmail.com
